

NTC Library Resource Purchasing

The library staff invites you to contribute to the library's collection of academic resources. If you think a certain resource will enhance and/or broaden the learning experiences and capabilities of students and faculty/staff at NTC, we would like to know!

Although the library cannot guarantee the purchase of every request that come through, we will carefully look at the request considering the below criteria and will research available options based on the information you provide:

- Accessible to all or most students and faculty/staff
- Format of resource effectively supports curriculum
- Closed captioned and ADA compliant
- Recent publication dates as appropriate to the subject
- Material is to be housed in the library (if physical) and available for students and faculty/staff on a weekly – semester basis
- Cost effective

Types of resources we've purchased in the past:

- Books
- Journals and Magazines
- Audio-visual
- Online Databases and Resources

We are not limited to the above! As technology and learning tools are always being re-invented, the library is open to providing new learning tools to our students.
